HAVE YOU REGISTERED?

The city trustees have decided to call an election to submit to the people of Glendale the proposition of issuing bonds to the extent of $17,000 for the addition to our fire-fighting facilities of a pumping engine and other necessary equipment. The election will be held on October 30th. Citizens who have been qualified voters at any election held since January 1, 1916, and who have not changed their residence, do not need to register, and for the convenience of others the following deputy registrars have been appointed by Registrar Lyon: Miss M. E. Meyton, at branch postoffice, Glendale avenue south of Broadway, and Mrs. Helen M. Bott at the Glendale Book Store, Brand boulevard south of Broadway. Voters must be registered thirty days previous to election so the time is short in which to attend to it, expiring Saturday of this week, the 29th.

BOYS' CHOIR

The members of the Boys' Choir of St. Mark's Church will meet at the church tomorrow, Thursday, afternoon, at 4 o'clock, for rehearsal. So many new boys have expressed their desire to join the choir that there will soon be a waiting list. First come, first served. The boys have stood by their work well this past summer, and never has St. Mark's Church had a larger choir and better congregations in the summer time, than this past summer.

FLOWERS WANTED

The decorating committee of the Tuesday Afternoon Club would like the following flowers for decorations on the opening day of the club year, October 9: Goldenrod, roses, chrysanthemums, lilies and poppies, all in yellow if possible. Members of the club and other ladies who will be glad to let us have these flowers will please notify Mrs. Frank Hester, Sunset phone 138 W., or Mrs. Glenwood Jones, Home phone 1264.

EXEMPTION BOARD

PERMANENT HEADQUARTERS SHOULD BE LOCATED IN GLENDALE, LOGICALLY

Question: "Should the permanent office of the Exemption Board of the Seventh District, Los Angeles County, be located in Glendale?" That is one of the important questions for discussion at the public meeting in the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow—Thursday—evening.

As first organized, the Exemption Board for the Seventh District of Los Angeles County consisted of "Needham of Newhall," John T. Wilson of San Fernando, and Mattison B. Jones of Glendale. By agreement the office was located at San Fernando, which is between Newhall and Glendale. By courtesy, an auxiliary office was arranged in Glendale for the convenience of the large majority of the men called for examination, though the records are kept at San Fernando because Mr. Wilson, who lived there, could give him time to the work.

But Mr. F. D. Lanterman of Canada—practically in Glendale—succeeded Mr. Needham on the board. So both he and Mr. Jones could give the necessary time if the head of the board be moved to Glendale.

This certainly should be done—and it very likely will be done if both the Exemption Board and the Governor of the State are duly petitioned therefor.

There are yet 1272 men to be examined in the Seventh District—most of them much nearer to Glendale than to San Fernando. It will save great expense of time and money to have the permanent office of the Exemption Board here, where most needed for months to come. Then when the enlisted men are ready for the training camps they can start from Glendale, where relatives and friends can give them a good send-off.

Without doubt, the permanent office of the Exemption Board should be in Glendale.

THE DRAFTEES' RECEPTION

Plans are rapidly developing for the reception-entertainment for the men from District No. 7 who are expected to leave for training October 3 or 16 next.

As announced yesterday, this function will be given by the Glendale Chapter, American Red Cross, on Monday evening, October 1, at 7:45, in the High School Auditorium.

Announcements have been prepared and will be sent to all the churches in the district, and invitations will also go out to all the men and their friends. If you are missed, come anyway.

The program has been completed and will include piano, vocal and instrumental music, community singing led by Dr. Harrower and short speeches by two representative citizens. Refreshments will be served by the committee on refreshments, directed by Mrs. John Robert White, and like the admission they will be free. The "probable collection" mentioned in yesterday's News will not materialize—there will be no reason for anyone to stay away.

Keep Monday night free and come to the High School Auditorium to give the glad hand to those boys who constitute one-half of the quota for our district, and who will leave a few days later.

DETERMINED TO ENLIST

Mr. Stephen F. Veselich of Tropico paid the Glendale Chamber of Commerce a visit yesterday. His call number for examination by the Exemption Board is 1326, which may not be reached for some time to come, as the last number examined was 650.

In as much as he has made two previous attempts at enlistment, and was rejected both times on a technicality, he wished for a special examination by the Exemption Board here, for which arrangement has just been made through the courtesy of Mr. F. D. Lanterman. Under the new ruling, Mr. Veselich hopes to be accepted and the sooner be on his way to "Somewhere in France."

INTERESTED IN GLENDALE

"Has anybody here seen —?" No, not Kelly, but F. W. Miller, 2210 Izard street, Little Rock, Ark., or F. Braun, 201 East Thirtieth street, New York City? Both are inquiring of the Chamber of Commerce about Glendale. Perhaps some one here knows them—and would write them a letter about Glendale. The "Aloha" circular has been sent them.

A FORD STORY

THE UNIVERSAL CAR NARROWLY ESCAPED BEING NAMED "CATHOLIC"

Editor Glendale News:

Mr. Jesse Smith, who has just returned from Detroit, brings back this interesting story:

A Detroit newspaper man, who just sort of goes around seeing what he can see, records that "one day last week" there strolled into the lobby of one of the city's leading hotels an elderly man of military bearing with a gruff Prussianized countenance, and beside him a younger, slighter individual, whose whimsical smile and twinkling eyes were in strong contrast with the expression of his companion. Disregarding the conventions, the pair seated themselves on a bench reserved for "bell hops" and entered into animated conversation, all unmindful of the uniformed service boys whose place they had usurped, and who in turn were blissfully unaware that they had given up their seats to General Nelson A. Miles and Henry Ford. But a little bird happened to fly into the lobby, and spying the two distinguished men in conversation, rightfully decided that an earful of this confabulation would be worth while.

The General had been talking in a low, guarded tone when the automobile wizard suddenly interrupted with, "What do you mean by 'Guardians, Nels'?" "Why," replied the General, "I thought you knew of the patriotic society, the 'Guardians of Liberty,' of which I am the head." "Patriotic society," said Ford, "I hadn't noticed the name of 'Guardians of Liberty,' in connection with any of the patriotic demonstrations or in the campaigns for Red Cross funds or Liberty Bond sales. Oh, it's purely military eh? Raising regiments for service in France, I suppose, General?"

"No," replied Miles, "you see, this society was organized some time before the war broke out, and it wasn't exactly intended for assisting the government along that line. In fact, the war came in kind of unhandy, as far as our plans were concerned, for it's rather upset things in a general way. You see, Henry, we had set out to reform things politically, to organize strongly everywhere and keep a certain class of undesirables out of public office. No, we hadn't exactly counted on the war and the necessity for raising a great army. In fact, the war has helped these undesirables by giving them a chance to rush to the colors and demonstrate their patriotism."

"I don't quite follow you," said Ford. "What kind of an undesirable is it that rushes off to join the colors when the country is in peril? Who is this fellow that is good enough to fight for his country but, is not good enough for public life, Nels?"

"Well, you see, Henry," said the General, "we Guardians do not believe that a man should have a divided allegiance. We do not believe that a man can be a Roman Catholic and let the Pope dictate to him what he should do from Italy and at the same time be a citizen of the United States." (Continued on Page 4)

WAR WORK FOR WOMEN

All women interested in doing their bit along the lines of food conservation are earnestly urged to attend a mass meeting to be held in the auditorium of the Broadway Department store, Friday afternoon, September 28, at 2 o'clock. Ralph Merritt, State food administrator, and other prominent speakers will talk on woman's part in winning the war.

This meeting will be held under the auspices of the woman's committee of the County Council of Defense, and Glendale is expected to furnish her share of women whose patriotism is shown along these lines as well as all others of national welfare.

TROPICO TEAM SECURES 564 NAMES TO CONSOLIDATION PETITION

Citizens of Tropico favoring annexation with Glendale organized a Tropico-Glendale Annexation Association recently and on last Thursday, under the leadership of W. G. Black of 141 West Park avenue, Tropico, twenty persons, each with a separate petition, started out to get signers asking that the board of trustees of the City of Tropico call an election to give the citizens of that place an opportunity to decide by ballot if they wish to consolidate with Glendale. Five hundred and sixty-four persons signed these petitions and the petitions were filed with the trustees Tuesday evening. The trustees received the petition in regular form and ordered it checked up.

PADEFORD-McMILLAN

A wedding which will come as a surprise to the many friends of the Glendale young couple was celebrated at Santa Ana at high noon Tuesday, September 25, when Miss Edna McMillan, 326 Louise street, was married to Carlton PadeFord of the ninth Company, Coast Artillery, stationed at Dead Man's Island. Mr. PadeFord is the son of J. F. PadeFord, 915 Fairview avenue, North Glendale. The marriage took place at 619 Bush street, Santa Ana, the residence of Rev. Perry Frederick Shrock, Congregational minister, who officiated. In the wedding party were First Lieutenant Benjamin B. Blair and First Sergeant Edward R. Sullivan, especial friends of the groom. Mrs. PadeFord will continue to hold her position at the Dolly Varden restaurant in this city and the husband will valiantly do his bit for Uncle Sam.

FOR BATTERY F

A benefit dance of especial interest to Glendale is to be given Friday evening at the Shriners' Auditorium in Los Angeles, to raise a mess fund for Battery F of the California Field Artillery, which is to leave Arcadia on Sunday for Linda Vista. There are six Glendale boys in Battery F, and further interest is given to the occasion by the fact that Mary Pickford, godmother of Battery F, is to lead the grand march with Major Harry A. Wishard, affectionately known as "Daddy to Battery F."

It is to be hoped that Glendale will appear at this affair in patriotic numbers. The tickets will be $1 per couple. Following are the names of the Glendale boys: Vernon Sniveley, James Gibson, Miller Holman, Fred Farner, Louis Leppelman and F. R. Liddell, Jr., well known as the composer of "The Man Behind the Gun."

CORONER'S INQUEST

County Coroner Hartwell conducted an inquest over the body of A. W. Randolph, who was killed by a Southern Pacific train Monday evening. The members of the jury were C. C. Downing, chairman; Oma Fish, Dan Kelly, David Francy, John Cole and Louis Sipple.

The verdict of the jury after hearing evidence from the engineer, fireman and conductor of the train that ran down Mr. Randolph, was that the accident was an unavoidable one on the part of the train men.

The date of the Randolph funeral has not been set yet, and will not be until word is heard from distant relatives.

HOME NURSING CLASS

Great interest is being manifested in the home nursing class now being formed under the direction of the Red Cross. A number of the most prominent young ladies in Glendale have enrolled, six being from "The Lucky Thirteen" of the 1913 High School graduating class. There is room for one or two more. If you wish to enroll, please give your names now as the class starts the first of the week. Telephone Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Sunset phone 607-J.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

Any friends who care to attend will be cordially welcomed at the Methodist church this evening at 5 o'clock when Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Goss will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. This will be an informal occasion and an informal invitation is extended to all friends and acquaintances.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1917

SOMETHING WRONG HERE?

In conversation with a lady who has just returned from a visit to several large Eastern cities, the News was told that there is a very tangible something missing out here. We in California do not seem to be alive to the seriousness of this war business. We may feel it, but we do not act it.

True enough, we are "doing fine, thank you" and from a Red Cross standpoint we have a right to be proud. Have we not over twelve hundred members in Glendale. Listen to this: In Greenwich, Connecticut, 90 per cent. of the population are members of the local Red Cross Chapter. In New York State in one town of 1975 people no less than 1917 are members of the Red Cross Chapter. Similarly, Glendale's population would approximate only 1300!

We are proud of our 1200 A. R. C. members, so many of them are real workers, as any one will quickly see if they visit Headquarters, 318 South Brand boulevard, any afternoon. But we ought to quadruple our membership and multiply our efforts many fold.

The need is greater to-day than it was last month. We must do MORE!

WEEDING OUT EVIL SCHOOL INFLUENCES

In an effort to protect the school children of the state from the influence of those few unrestrained youths, whose habits are flagrantly vicious, and, like the bad apple in the barrel of good ones, liable generally to be contaminating, the State Board of Education at its last meeting passed a resolution calculated to add more power and penalty to the authority of the school principal in the handling of recalcitrant youths. The new section added to the rules and regulations of the state board reads as follows:

"Principals of public schools, elementary or secondary, shall exercise careful supervision over the moral conditions in their respective schools. Gambling, frequenting pool rooms, immorality or the use of narcotics or alcohol, either in or out of school, shall not be tolerated; any pupil guilty of these offenses or any of them shall be immediately suspended by the principal of the school such pupil is attending and shall not be again received into any public school of the state until satisfactory assurance is given by said pupil and his parent or guardian that such offense shall not be repeated while such pupil is in attendance upon the public schools of this state. For violation of such assurance the principal shall suspend such pupil for the remainder of the current school term. This rule shall be permanently posted in a suitable and conspicuous place in each school building."

The board feels that it has ample constructive authority in law for this action in addition to the unquestioned moral right and duty to safeguard the welfare of the great majority of public school children.

INTEREST ON BONDS

There will soon be another big war bond issue. We shall all be asked to buy. What are we going to do about it?

The interest may be 3½ per cent. again. It may be 4 per cent. Whatever it is, it will be smaller than the return ordinarily expected from an investment.

We hear it said occasionally that we can't be expected to keep on lending our savings to the government at so low a rate when we can make two or three times that much in business investments. The Journal of the American Bankers' association replies:

"To the man who says he can get 10 per cent. for his money, the answer is that certainty of his 10 per cent., or any other rate, depends entirely on the success of the government in securing funds at 3½ per cent. or whatever rate congress sees fit to fix. If bonds cannot be sold, nothing is secure. There are always individuals who will hang back and hold out for the 10 per cent., but their safety in this respect lies in having someone else supply the funds at the lower rate."

That puts the citizen who won't buy war bonds in a rather bad light. He's a sort of a sneak, letting his neighbors back the war with their money, at little profit, so that he may make much profit.

Fairness and patriotism demand that every citizen do his share in financing the war. And mere business caution would suggest that, if a man is going to invest money in a private enterprise, he first invest something in our great national enterprise as insurance for his other investment.—Whittier News.

CO-OPERATION THROUGH NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

This is a time when a great deal is being said about co-operation among business men. Past experiences have demonstrated that there is much to be gained by business men co-operating with one another. One of the channels through which great benefits may be derived by co-operation is that of advertising in the local papers.

If there are five men engaged in the same line of business and only one of these men advertises in the papers, the other four are bound to reap benefits from that one man's advertising. If the advertisements placed in the paper by the man who believes in ad-

MISS GRACE SAXE

Union meeting this Wednesday evening at 7:45, First M. E. church. Popular Bible study under the leadership of Miss Grace Saxe of the Billy Sunday party. Miss Saxe's world-wide experience easily places her among the foremost Bible instructors of the country. For several years she traveled in the old world with Torrey and Alexander, conducting Bible classes as an important part of these evangelistic campaigns. She is also a writer of no small ability.

This series of studies is under the special direction of the Sunday Campaign Committee. There will be at least three more lessons on Wednesday evenings in October.

Everybody most cordially invited to any or all of these meetings.

vertising draw the people to his store, these people will notice in going to and from his store the merchandise displayed in other stores, and will likely make purchases.

Now, if the other four men would advertise there would therefore be a greater number of people attracted to the various stores and the chances are each merchant would sell more goods. There is a tendency on the part of merchants to expect the advertising they do to be of direct benefit to themselves and not in any way benefit their fellow merchants. The man who expects to monopolize the results of advertising in this way might as well undertake to have a monopoly on the air he breathes.

The right kind of advertising suggests to prospective buyers the need of purchasing certain kinds of merchandise and when the prospective buyer becomes interested in making the purchase he will purchase wherever he can get the best bargain.

If there are fifty merchants in a business community, and if all of the fifty do right live advertising, all of the merchants will do a much better business than if only two or three of them would advertise. The amount of advertising in a local paper indicates the amount of business thrift in the city in which that paper is published. It is therefore a wise plan for merchants in any community to get together and co-operate in placing advertisements in their local paper.

SHINE UP OLD GLORY

Wash up the flag!

The American eagle must fairly scream with wrath when his piercing eye falls upon the grimy banners which hang above many a true patriot's roof.

The flag is at its best when borne by marching men, or when it floats briskly from a tall standard on the highest point of a building against the blue California sky.

But whatever its place, it is not at its best if it is dull with soot. Hundreds of our Star-Spangled Banners are not waving proudly at all, at the present moment. In every street in Fresno one can observe flags whose broad stripes and bright stars are dimly gray with smoke.

As a rule some careless janitor is at fault when Old Glory gets so grimy. Therefore, it is up to the owner, manager, trustee, to whoever has power to order the flag up, to see that its colors are kept pure red, pure white and pure blue. The Herald knows of many of our truest citizens who wouldn't like it a bit if this paper should conduct a "roll of dishonor" which would include all those who are insulting the flag. Yet, these very people are conducting their own "roll of dishonor," though it does not shine forth with the coldness of type.

Whoever is loyal enough to raise a flag surely ought to be conscientious enough to keep it clean and whole.

Tatters, tears and dirt are honorable only when they have been won in the service.

Honor your flag by keeping it clean.—Fresno Herald.

PURCHASING VALUE OF COMMODITIES

"As indicated by the purchasing value of commodities," said R. J. Clancy, Assistant to General Manager of the Southern Pacific, "railroad transportation is now approximately 50 per cent. cheaper than three years ago and, in this time of soaring prices and increased cost of living, is probably the only product relatively speaking that has decreased in price.

"A bushel or sack of wheat, corn or barley, a bale of cotton or wool, a barrel of pork or flour, a ton of copper, iron or steel, will buy approximately double the amount of railroad transportation it would three years ago. This, too, regardless of the fact that during the last three years wages of railway employees and cost of capital have greatly increased, along with an increase of 100 per cent. in cost of fuel oil for locomotives and an increase of from 50 to 500 per cent. in the cost of railway supplies, equipment and material."

TO CURE SCARS

Scars are often very ugly things and disagreeable marks when they exist in prominent places on the skin. Probably nothing can remove a big scar the tissue of which has become fibrous and unyielding, but the following recipe, to be applied on lint and allowed to remain on the part for a little time daily, will effect an improvement in small scars and blemishes: Borax, one and a half ounces; salicylic acid, twelve grains; glycerin, three drams; rose-water, six ounces. Mix.

Personals

Mrs. J. S. Van Why of 1542 Vine street is quite ill.

A Mr. McAtee and family have moved into the house at 1510 Vine street.

If there is a man who the year round can show a better garden than J. P. Apple of 146 South Orange, Glendale, who is he?

The Bentley-Shoeneman plaster fence east of their lumber office is almost completed, and will add greatly to the neat appearance of the street at that place.

Mrs. Zella Robison and two daughters, who moved to Long Beach a few weeks ago, have returned to Glendale to live. Mrs. Robison has been employed to teach in the Colorado Street schools.

Prof. Arthur C. Brown of 1301 Milford street and other educational men of Glendale, are interested in establishing and promoting an extension course under the direction of the University of Southern California.

Miss Ethyl West, 838 San Rafael street, entertained at Sunday dinner the following guests: Miss Bernice Adams, Miss Catherine Adams and Miss Phil Adams of Inglewood, and Miss Anne Rodier and Miss Lucy Harper of Los Angeles.

The enlisting of men to go to war and the drafting of men to go to war, together with the very hot season and the excellent quality of the ice of the Crystal Ice Company has made it necessary for H. P. Coker, manager of the business, to drive an ice wagon himself.

Mrs. F. M. Pixley and her daughter, Miss Olive Pixley, entertained a week-end party at their cottage at Hermosa Beach. The guests who enjoyed this very pleasant occasion were Mrs. Rankin and her daughter, Miss Evelyn, and Miss Mildred Forbes of Hollywood.

The Sunset Telephone Company admits that it is a representative of their company who is traveling about the city from house to house asking questions that nobody without authority has any business to ask. There is always a business-like way of getting at these things and that is the way the Sunset Telephone Company should get their information—in accordance with business principles.

A sign on the wall in the Glendale Pharmacy was the cause of a little embarrassment Tuesday after a man had been talking for about five minutes on promiscuous subjects. In the midst of his animated conversation his eye caught the sign which read: "Talk Limited to Three Minutes." There was immediate silence until Mr. Elliott explained that the large sign belonged to the public phone department.

Good authority says that Motor Policeman Hollenbeck rides a motorcycle that has a speed limit of 71½ miles. Now boys if you have nothing in the motor line that will run faster than that you would better drive a little careful. The owner of a Hudson on Brand boulevard says he can make 80 miles with his boat, but would want to have a clear road and a good one too. He says he would be pleased to pay the fine if the Henderson could catch him on a good road. Boys, you would bet bet cut out such talk in Glendale and go over to San Fernando, where the signs used to read: "Speed limit 100 miles or more."

MEN OF EXPERIENCE

R. E. Green and J. H. Denham are partners in the shoe-repairing business on Broadway near Glendale avenue. Mr. Green worked at his trade for 16 years in St. Louis. Mr. Denham was also working in St. Louis for a long time. They are good workmen, understand leather and its use when made into shoes. Their shop is well equipped with the most modern kind of machinery. They are giving their patrons good service and are ready to serve others.

AN OPTIMISTIC CITIZEN

J. F. Harden, proprietor of the Glendale Furniture Store, 608 West Broadway, is an optimistic business man, and perhaps he has cause for it when he says his August business this season went 250 per cent over his August business of a year ago. Mr. Harden has cause to be optimistic because he actually knows he will remain doing business in Glendale, and where is the man that will not be filled with joy when conditions assure him that he may be permitted to live in a beautiful city like this one?

Probably another reason why Mr. Harden is optimistic is because he is the sole owner and controller of his large stock of furniture. He sells nobody's goods on commission. He buys outright, paying cash and therefore it is considerable satisfaction to him to know that the merchandise in his store absolutely belongs to him.

Mr. Harden is of an optimistic make-up anyway. He is not looking for some one to knock a chip off of his shoulder. In fact, he does not carry a chip on his shoulder.

DRAFTING OF YOUTHS OF 19 AND 20 URGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The Army League, claiming to be backed by the War Department General Staff, today advocated immediate law to include youths of 19 and 20.

Among the officers of this organization are Joseph Leiter, president; ex-President Taft, honorary vice-president; Perry Belmont, Dr. William Hornaday, Mr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, vice-president, and Clark Howell, George W. C. Drexel, Thomas Nelson Page, Col. George Truesdell and Gen. John A. Johnson, members of the executive council.

The league says the General Staff thinks these boys are needed and should be conscripted and put in training at once to insure triumphal closing of the European war.

Asserting that youths of this age have played vitally important parts in previous wars, the league quotes Lieut.-Gen. S. M. B. Young's statement, gleaned from the records of the war department as to ages of soldiers in the Civil War. These are:

Boys ten years of age and under, 25; eleven or under, 38; twelve, 225; thirteen, 300; fourteen, 1523; fifteen, 104,987; sixteen, 231,051; seventeen, 844,091; eighteen, 1,151,438; twenty-one, 2,159,798; twenty-two and over, 46,626.

"To keep down the expenses of conducting the war," said the league's statement, "the government should avoid as far as possible the calling of men with dependents. Even at greater cost it is doubtful whether as many men can be secured between the ages of 21 and 31 as will be available between 19 and 21."

"The amendment could be so framed that the men called out under it would not be placed in active military service until they have reached the age of 21."

"The time that has been consumed in putting into effect the existing law should convince anyone who has been watching the progress of our preparations for war that congress should take up this legislation immediately."

AID TO FRENCH CHILDREN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Aid being extended to French children by the American Red Cross Commission to France is described in a cablegram just received by the Red Cross War Council. In addition to infant welfare units established under the direction of Dr. William P. Lucas, throughout France and Belgium, special assistance is being given in the fight against tuberculosis and children's diseases. A children's hospital has also been opened at Toul. A cablegram describing the work of the Children's Bureau is as follows:

"The Children's Bureau in the Department of Civil Affairs of the Red Cross Commission to France received an appeal from Nesle through Monsieur and Madame Amedee Vernes of the French Red Cross for aid among the children of their district and the group of villages to the north and west."

"In response, an expert from the Children's Bureau, a specialist in children's diseases from Johns Hopkins Hospital, was sent immediately to investigate the conditions. He visited the region in company with Monsieur Amedee Vernes and found villages looted and burned, with all buildings destroyed. He found more than 1000 children practically with no medical care, all miserably dirty and one-half of whom were infected with skin or eye lesions, and many actually ill."

"The equipment for any medical care was extremely meager; one old hospital stripped of all its apparatus; one aged civilian doctor left without drugs or means of getting them, villages to look after besides his army duties, and one midwife fairly intelligent who might help. 'Twas an acute situation."

"Nesle immediately offered a tuberculosis pavilion now unused for the Red Cross headquarters, if the American Red Cross would help. The doctor's recommendations upon his return were immediately accepted."

"The Children's Bureau began work by installing a central depot at Nesle with ten beds as a clearing house for the district, and by equipping an automobile as a traveling dispensary, with shower baths. The cars visit the villages on a daily round with one good trained nurse and two aides. The arrangements for all this are nearing completion and the doctor has gone to Nesle taking enough material with him to begin the work immediately."

A REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT

Knitting 100 pairs of socks for the Red Cross is the remarkable accomplishment of Mrs. Scott, of Nelson, N. B., Canada, who is more than 90 years old and is totally blind. This is only a part of the story of what women in Canada are doing for the Red Cross, that Miss Susie Flett, who lives in the same town with this patriotic nonagenarian, brings to the women of Menominee. Miss Flett has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lovell. "Immediately after war was declared Canadian women took up the work for the Red Cross," said Miss Flett. "We wouldn't be considered Canadians if we didn't knit for the Red Cross. Everywhere one goes in Canada the women are found doing some kind of work for the Red Cross. The favorite work is knitting socks. We don't make many bandages but knit many articles. It is wonderful to see the list of things we make. Everybody is working. Even the children knit woolen articles, and women taking their knitting and sewing along to their social gatherings the same as if it were a part of their social duties. Women wanting to become Red Cross nurses go to Halifax, where they take a course in the great training school there, and after obtaining a knowledge of the work, are sent immediately to France. Many have taken this work and gone to the front, and the training school is kept filled by others who want to go. The generosity among the Canadians is wonderful. They give until it hurts, and to indulge in unprofitable pleasure or waste of time is considered a disgrace. There are tag days for the Red Cross, afternoon teas for the Red Cross, and the school children sell flags for the Red Cross. Red Cross work is about all the women can do to help in the war and they are doing it gladly, willingly and devotedly. The Canadian boys are flocking to the colors, and the war spirit is alive everywhere. In Canada every poor family of which the head has gone to war is cared for by the government. In many families the father and sons, all have gone to war. It is sad, but the women are heroic about it, and work with might and main to do all they can for the loved ones fighting the battle in France."

BRITISHERS DISLIKE ARMOR

English, Canadian, Australian—still refuses to gird himself with armor, although several inventors have perfected shields capable of deflecting bullets, shrapnel and small shell fragments. It is the story over again of the tin-hat which the soldiers first sneered at as a bonnet made for cowards.

Secretly, thousands of men want body armor, protective visors for their eyes and every other sort of safeguard that inventive ingenuity can devise. A soldier of unquestioned bravery will admit confidently that the only reason he refuses to buy the stuff for himself is that he would be ashamed to wear armor while other fellows can't afford to buy it.

Some officers of great value to the army have the courage to wear shields, not to spare themselves suffering but to safe-guard their services to the forces.

Armor has its faults. It is heavy and expensive and its manufacture in great quantities would divert the energies of a great number of skilled workmen now making other war materials. But the severest tests have shown that many lives could be saved and many hospital cases averted by protective plates.

The case of the tin hat showed how gratefully the army takes to every innovation of practical value in saving lives. The helmet by now has prevented head wounds by the thousands, many of which would have been fatal. For good measure the curved brim has warded off many shoulder or body helmets by deflecting shrapnel pellets and shell fragments. Dozens of battered helmets, pierced by bullets and chunks of metal, may be seen rusting in the shell holes after an advance but the inventors never claimed the hat would stop everything.

If the Army Council ever decides to adopt armor for the men there is no question that the men will wear it, though reluctantly at first. Dr. C. W. Saleeby, inventor of the helmet, may again become the Tommy's friend if the council takes this step. He recently submitted a shrapnel-proof jacket which has passed several tests.

Another inventor got around the weight difficulty by making a fibre shield. This is something like a wartime sea-passenger's life belt, stuffed with light flexible material. A machine gun bullet may pierce the hide of the jacket and raise a painful welt on the wearer's chest but tests show that the bullet gets stuck in the fibre and does not go through.

The designers recognize the importance of shielding the lower portions of the body.

No inventor has yet been able to make a mask or visor strong enough to protect the face and eyes against a bullet at short range. The chain visor of fine steel mesh, slightly distended just before the eyeballs, has been more satisfactory than any of the others. It will fend off small shell fragments and chunks of hand grenade, however, and these missiles have caused many cases of total blindness in three years of war.

same time be a good citizen and loyal to his country. It isn't natural. The Bible says, 'No man can serve two masters.'"

While the General had been speaking the puzzled look on the face of the auto king had given way to one of open amusement, and when his companion had finished he said: "Nels, you old goose, you make me laugh. This is pretty rich, coming from a man of your standing. Any man able to read is aware of the fact that there is a large percentage of Catholics in the armies of Germany, Austria and Bulgaria, and that opposed to them are the armies of France, Belgium, Italy and Great Britain, with a great percentage of Catholics. In fact, regiments from certain sections are entirely Catholic, both in the Teutonic armies and in the armies of the Allies. That doesn't look very much as if the Pope dictates to his people in a way to prevent them serving their governments, Nels. Only a short time ago the Catholic Cardinals of this country told their people that the rule to follow was obedience to all lawfully instituted authority, and that, by the way, will have more influence in keeping the German people of this country loyal than all other influences combined. You know, Nels, there is also a passage in the Scriptures about 'rendering unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's,' and I reckon they interpret the Bible literally over there in the Vatican, and that's the reason the Pope attends to just the religious matters of the Catholics and prays for peace for the whole world."

The General had been growing very red-faced as the auto king was speaking, and when he had finished he snapped: "This efficiency business has gone to your head, Ford. That's why you are admiring the Catholic church and its world-wide organization. It's a wonder you wouldn't use Latin in your sales department and copy the church altogether."

"Of course, you're trying to be sarcastic, Nels," said Ford, "but just the same that very thought has come to me many times. I've said to myself that if we could use Latin in our sales department throughout the world, just the same as the Catholic Church does in her ceremonies, it would simplify matters very much. One never knows anything about the Catholic Church till he makes a study of some of its points. I used to think of it as a kind of foreign institution, because of the use of Latin in its ceremonies, but when I began to study the reason for its using the dead language, then all was clear as daylight."

"Got a good many Catholics working for you, haven't you, Henry?" asked Miles.

Yes, I believe about 50 per cent of the 40,000 men at the main plant are Catholics. In the foundry and departments, where a great deal of physical endurance is required, the American-born are not very anxious to compete with the foreign-born men, and there is a large percentage of Poles, Hungarians and other representatives of Catholic countries. We find them good, competent workmen."

"Do you think you are doing your duty as an American to employ so many foreigners and Catholics?" asked General Miles.

The auto king stared at the other for a moment, and then, placing a kindly hand to his shoulder, he said: "Nelson, you are certainly getting childish. We don't employ men because they are foreigners, nor do we have any religious test. We engage them to do the work we have to have done. We can't discriminate against a man on account of his religion, for that would be contrary to the spirit of the United States constitution, and you, as an army officer, ought to be one of the first to acknowledge that. Besides, you know we make the 'Universal' car, and we sell them to a man regardless of his religious beliefs."

"You know, Nelson, there is a similarity between the words 'Catholic' and 'Universal,' and the Catholic Church calls itself the Universal Church."

"You know I have even thought of calling my car the 'Catholic,' instead of the 'Universal,' but gave up the idea because there are too many narrow people, like you, in the world, and I realize it wouldn't be a good business."

By this time the General had slumped down in the bench and given up the argument so the little bird flew out into Cadillac Square.

This story appeals to me because I drive a "Ford." Because I am a Catholic priest, an American citizen by birth, and was educated in the public schools of Boston.

POSSIBLE REASON

"Beanborough always looks on the bright side of things."

"Why?"

"Well, the other day I went with him to buy a pair of shoes. He didn't try them on at the store and when he got home he found that a nail was sticking right up through the heel of one."

"Did he take them back?"

"Not much. He said that he supposed the nail was put there intentionally to keep the foot from sliding forward in the shoe."—Harper's.

BEST HE COULD DO

"My hair is coming out," said a man to his doctor. "Please give me something to keep it in."

LAND CLASSIFIERS WANTED

The Government is in urgent need of a number of qualified men to assist in the work of classifying public lands in the Western States with regard to their value for grazing and raising forage crops. A large appropriation for this work became available in June, and Secretary Lane, of the Interior Department, has instructed the United States Geological Survey to expedite this classification in every possible way. The area to be classified in the near future is more than 20,000,000 acres and extends into fifteen States.

Appointments to the Survey staff are made on certification by the Civil Service Commission. The Commission has announced open competitive examinations for the position of junior land classifier, at salaries of $1,080 to $1,200 a year, assistant land classifier, at salaries of $1,500 to $1,800, and classifiers at entrance salaries of $1,800 to $2,400. Each appointee's expenses when on field duty will be paid by the Survey. No formal written examination is prescribed by the Commission, and candidates are not required to assemble for examination in any particular place. They will be required to file with the Commission certificates as to their training and experience, from which ratings will be made by the Commission.

The Survey is especially desirous of obtaining for this work recent college graduates who have specialized in agriculture or civil engineering. There are also openings in the higher positions for men who are trained in plant ecology, geology, and forestry. For the junior grade actual field experience in land-classification work is not required, but such experience is essential in the other grades. The Director of the Geological Survey, at Washington, will furnish upon request further information concerning the examination or the work. The Civil Service Commission, at Washington, or any of its local secretaries will furnish the proper application forms and detailed instructions as to their use.

COTTON IN CARLOAD LOTS

"No cotton will be handled in less than carload lots this fall," according to a statement made by William Sproule, chairman of the Western Committee of the Railroads' War Board.

"With the movement of the cotton crop scheduled to begin this fall at a time when a combination of government and commercial business will be bringing tremendous pressure to bear upon the railroads," explained Sproule, "the commission on Car Service of the Railroads' War Board has issued instructions prohibiting the shipping of cotton in quantities less than 65 bales per car and requiring as many more to be loaded as the size of the car furnished will permit. Notice to this effect has just been sent to buyers of cotton together with a request that they place orders for their requirement on a basis of not less than 65 bales or multiples thereof. In the Southwest and Mississippi delta districts the average car will load 65 bales and in the southeast district the average car will load 75 bales. Consequently buyers are asked to order in multiples of 65 from the southwest and in multiples of 75 from the southeast districts. The New England territory will be taxed to the maximum capacity of facilities this fall and the acceptance of freight by the railroads serving the territory north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers will have to be carefully regulated."

No one can look into the statistics of California municipalities without being struck by the fact that uniformity in expenditures for like purposes is a missing element. In fact, the disparity in expenditures often is found so great as to be startling, and the question naturally arises as to why these disparities should exist.

For instance, it is shown in some figures recently produced by Tax Payers' Association of California, that in cities of 1000 and less, the per capita cost for police protection varies from 15 cents to $4.75. One might think that the town paying $4.75 was a "tough" place, but in this instance it happens to be an exclusive residential suburb, where peace and good order are expected to prevail at all times. In the same class of cities, fire protection, per capita, ranges from 2 cents to $2.80. Why should this be so?
